Salvage Crews from Mather Field Reclaim Bodies
Of Aviation Cadets From Watery Grave Following Crash Tuesday Morning.

Salvage crews from Mather Field at Sacramento late yesterday removed the wreckage of an army training plane from 60 feet of water in Marla Bay, near Zephyr Cove, Lake Tahoe, and the bodies of Aviation Cadets John Edward Martin, 25, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Albert Mason, 23, New Orleans, La., were recovered.

The salvage operations were conducted under the direction of Lieutenant L. G. Heston, post engineer officer at Mather Field. Previous attempts to

Truckee Tops Quota In Red Cross Drive; More Is Required

Over-Subscription Of Red Cross Quota by Thirty
Per Cent Asked.

Because of the greatly expanded war program which has been assumed by the American Red Cross since the War Fund Campaign was launched on December 8, and because of the needs which must be met have become more specific, the national chairman has asked that all chapters and branches over-subscribe their original quotas by 30 per cent. If this is done, it is expected that, barring a major disaster, no further fund appeal will be necessary during 1942.

To date the Truckee branch has raised $342.10—about 2% per cent above the first quota. Organizations and individuals wishing to have a part in the larger quota may leave their contribution at the local branch of the Bank of America.

The bank account of the local branch was credited with $25.85 Monday morning. This amount was taken from the jars which some weeks ago were placed in the business places to raise money for local emergencies.

DEFENSE SPEAKERS SLATED FOR SESSION OF TRUCKEE P. T. A.

The regular meeting of the Truckee Union Parents and Teachers Association will be held Friday evening, February 6, at eight o'clock p. m., in the Grammar School Auditorium. The program will be commemorative of "Founder's Day".

All parents and civic minded persons are urged to attend as the county defense council will furnish two speakers on civilian defense problems. The principal speaker will be Elmer E. Stevens, public speaking coach of the Grass Valley High School and a member of the public information committee of the county council. C. K. Heffner, county defense coordinator, will be present to introduce Mr. Stevens and to answer any questions that may be presented on the subject of civilian defense.

District Ski Meet To Be Run Here On This Weekend

Officials Will Try to Run Events In One Day To Release Contestants.

The Truckee Outing Club will be host February 7th to the California Ski Association's divisional Class B and C qualification meet in downhill and slalom. All Class B and C skiers in the Central District No. 2 must compete in the local meet this weekend to qualify for the state championship tournament in March.

There will be meeting of the club tonight to make last-minute arrangements for the meet. All skiers for the organization are urged to be on hand to check on registrations with the state association. Skiers must be registered to be eligible for competition, states Secretary C. M. Matson.

Last year the same event—held here—attracted 70 skiers from the club's of the district. The entry list this year may be slightly lighter due to the fact that the district has been reduced and many skiers who competed last year are in the armed services.

Robert Seibold and Robert Bowers who directed the meet last year, have again been named tournament directors by the club. Timers, starters and judges will be named by them.

While both Saturday and Sunday have been sanctioned by the state association for the meet, an attempt will be made to run the entire meet on Saturday, Seibold said.

If this is possible, Seibold said, it will release a squad of local skiers who plan to compete in the San Francisco Examiner's "Buy A Bomber" meet to be held at Soda Springs on Sunday. Among the local skiers who will enter this meet are Sigurd Ulland, Angelo Besio, Byron Johnson, Larry Leslie, Bowers and Seibold.

NO. 210, NO. 289 TAKEN OFF OF SCHEDULES OF S. P. RAILROAD

Local passenger trains No. 210 and No. 289 on the Southern Pacific have been dropped from the schedule, leaving eight passenger trains daily passing through Truckee. Train 210, east-bound, which has been arriving at 6 a. m. and the other at 2:15 p. m. Express will be dispatched as in the past.

The trains continuing schedules are: the hour of their arrival are No. 14, 7:40 p. m.; No. 9, 9:45 p. m.; No. 27, 10:25 p. m.; No. 87, 11:24 p. m.; No. 21, 2:15 p. m.; No. 85, 3:50 a. m.; No. 10, 5:00 a. m.; No. 28, 5:10 a. m.

The Meadow Lake Rationing Committee has received its quota for the month of February. One passenger tire and one tube with two truck tires and three tubes have been allocated for local sales. No one applied for the tire on last month's quota.

INCREASE OF ONE IS SHOWN ON COUNTY'S INDIGENT AID ROLLS

Contrary to the statewide trend, the number of persons receiving county indigent aid in Nevada county showed only a small increase between November and December, going from 116 persons aided in November to 117 in December, the California Taxpayers' association found in a recent survey. In addition to the 117 persons receiving indigent aid in the county in December, 502 received aid to needy aged, 21 aid to the needy blind, and 165 aid to dependent children.

The state as a whole showed much sharper increases than those in this county, it was found.

The Truckee Outing Club is taking a sportsmanlike and patriotic attitude in crowding its scheduled two-day ski meet scheduled for Saturday and Sunday into one day so that participants and spectators may go to Soda Springs Sunday to take part in the "Buy A Bomber" meet scheduled for that day. It will be difficult for the boys to arrange the usual two day affair to fit into one day and they are to be praised for their unselfish work.

Incidentally, the prospects for the meet Saturday are promising with a goodly amount of fresh snow on a packed surface. The meet will be well worth seeing and should offer some interesting results.

Truckee is soon to have a flying school and those acquainted with the necessities and conveniences declare the local field ideal for the purpose. The snow and subsequent mire offer the only complications but these handicaps, as compared with conditions elsewhere, are small, the experts declare. We have every hope that the school will be such a resounding success that its growth will continue even after the present emergency expires. The chamber of commerce is assisting the energetic school officials in arranging the details.

May we repeat a recent suggestion? Save your tires by buying at home. Tires are not all you will save, we promise.

New List Of Eligibles In Selective Service To Be Made In 3-Day Sign-Up

Boards In Tahoe-Sierra Area Set Up For Convenience
Of Registrants As Nation Prepares For First R-Day
Since Beginning Of War.

California men registering in the nation's third sign-up under the Selective Training and Service Act will be provided every facility to the end that they will not be inconvenienced, lose time in work, or be forced to travel long distances to register.

An official announcement from state headquarters of selective service in Sacramento today gave the officially approved list of registration places and location of these special boards which will be functioning from 7 A.M. the morning of February 14 until 9 P.M.

the night of February 16, during which time California's manpower between the ages of 20-44 years will be inventoried for possible use in the armed forces of the nation.

In this region special registration places functioning in the sign-up are as follows:

EASTERN NEVADA COUNTY
Sierra Sun office, Truckee. Soda Springs Hotel, Soda Springs.

EASTERN PLACER COUNTY

EASTERN EL DORADO COUNTY
Lawson's Lodge, the Y, south end of Lake Tahoe, Hwy. 50, Tahoe Valley. Strawberry Lodge, Hwy. 50, Strawberry. Post office, Kyburz. Post office at Yonkers.

It is estimated that there will be 3,000 registration places operating in California for the three-day registration period, proclaimed by Gov. Culbert L. Olson and pursuant to the Presidential decree establishing February 16 as "Third R-Day."

According to Brig. Gen. Joseph O. Donovan, state director of selective service, registrants are requested to effect their registrations at the earliest possible moment. Men engaged in national defense and war production are urged to register on their own time, that there may be no lost notion in the national defense effort.

Men coming under the nation's initial war-time sign-up are those born on or after February 17, 1897 and on or before December 31, 1921 who have not previously registered in one of the two R-Days and those who are not already in the nation's armed forces.

by LYTLE HULL

Now that war has again become the universal fashion, it might be a good idea to study a bit of its history.

Of the thousands upon thousands of battles in which we human beings have indulged, about 20 of them have decided the fate of the world up to this time. The first of these decisive battles was fought on the coast of Greece, 20-odd miles from Athens, in the year 490 B. C., on a little plain called Marathon; between the Athenians under Miltiades and the Persians under their famous general Datis.

From Tripoli, through Egypt and around the eastern end of the Mediterranean; through Turkey and into northern Greece, the great Persian empire held sway. Practically all Eastern civilization except China, bowed in submission to King Darius. The defeat of the Athenians at Marathon would mean the conquest of all Europe; Asiatic domination and civilization over the whole of the known world.

Before the battle opened the Athenian army was stationed in the hills overlooking this little six-mile-long by two-mile-deep plain. Datis and his fighting Persians had landed and made their camp on Marathon bay. The Greeks had the advantage of being able to watch from the hills every move the enemy made.

The leaders of the small Greek army looked down upon the vast horde of Persian cavalry, archers and infantry, and placed to a vote—as was the custom in that then democracy—the issue of whether to attack or to await attack. Fear of fifth column treachery in Athens influenced these brave generals to take a plunge which seemed suicidal. Though they little realized it, their vote decided the destiny of the civilized world. Miltiades was given supreme command and ordered the army to prepare for battle. His troops were all infantry, armed with spears and short swords. All young Greeks in those days were trained to run long distances without fatigue. So to take advantage of a surprise attack the entire army advanced on the run, in close formation, across the first mile of the plain, until it reached the Persian outposts. Miltiades had weakened his center in order to strengthen his two wings so as to prevent encirclement by the Persian cavalry. The result was—as he had anticipated—a retreat of the Greek center back to the strong defensive position afforded by the hills, and complete success on both wings. These wings then joined and attacked the Persian center which crumpled under this surprise. Fighting like madmen—but at a tremendous strategic disadvantage—the hitherto unbeaten warriors of Darius and his colonial allies were driven into the sea, and what was left of them escaped in their troop transports.

And thus ended—fortunately for the European races—probably the most important battle of all time. An almost contemporaneous historian wrote the following as a reason for this seemingly impossible victory of a people, who, but a short time before had thrown off the yoke of a dictator and created the Athenian democracy: "Liberty and equality of civic rights are brave, spirit-stirring things; and they who, while under the yoke of a despot, had been no better men of war than any of their neighbors, as soon as they were free became the foremost men of all; for each felt that in fighting for a free commonwealth he fought for himself, and whatever he took in hand, he was zealous to do the work thoroughly."

SAVING DAYLIGHT

On February 9 daylight saving time becomes a national institution.

When first tried, several years ago, there seemed to be something almost sacrilegious about tampering with time. But the people in daylight saving time areas quickly became used to the idea and were soon troubled only by the problems of figuring whether the clock should be set backward or forward and how to read railroad timetables. With national daylight saving, most of the complications will be eliminated. We will all get the habit of getting up one hour earlier and going to bed an hour earlier. After a few months, we hope, even the cows and chickens may get the idea.

But the purpose of national daylight saving is not to cater to the whims of any group of people but to aid our war program. Many of us think of electricity as something that is limitless in supply—like air and water. But actually the country faces a power shortage and unless major steps are taken to reduce use of power for non-essential purposes, we may soon be forced to have power rationing.

The demands for power, because of our nation's unprecedented production program, is much greater than it has ever been before. Although new power plants are rapidly being developed they will be unable to supply all industrial needs as well as consumer needs.

Daylight saving time is probably the most painless way to everyone concerned for cutting down on general use of power. It means an extra hour in the evening when none of us need to use lights—and that releases enough power to industry to produce many tanks and planes.

Later we may have to do more cutting down on the use of electricity. In some cases clocks may be advanced to the Editor

Dear Mr. Barrett:

I have read with interest your account in the Sierra Sun of the formation of the Donner Trail Joint School District. However, it did not give a complete picture of the situation, and I would appreciate your publishing this letter in your paper in order that people of Truckee may appreciate the action taken by the Board of Supervisors in forming the district and by me in recommending its formation.

As you know, the portion of the Truckee District lying west of the Donner Summit is set apart from the rest of the district. As far as I know, no grammar school pupil living in this area has ever attended the grammar school at Truckee, yet during all these years the residents of this locality have paid their share of the taxes to maintain the Truckee School. Also, for quite some time Placer County has maintained an Emergency school at Norden, and although a number of the Truckee District have attended this school every year, it is only during the present year that the Truckee District has contributed any ed still further. It may be that signs store windows and some of our home lights may be ordered blacked-out.

Meanwhile, let's do all we can voluntarily to cut down on use of power—and don't forget to set your clocks forward, not backward, on Feb. 9.

funds toward its maintenance.

The Norden School has been a costly one to operate, mainly because of transportation costs. The Superintendent of Schools of Placer County informed me some time ago that if this Joint District was not formed, he would discontinue bus transportation for the Norden School and would maintain the school for Placer County pupils only. Two courses would then have been left for the Truckee District, either to transport the Nevada County pupils by bus down over the Donner grade to Truckee, or to maintain a separate school in the vicinity of Norden or Soda Springs. In either instance the cost to the Truckee District would be a great deal more than the $800 which is being paid this year. Also, I have yet to see a parent who would be willing to have his children transported over the Donner grade daily in all kinds of weather.

Possibly the tax rate of the Truckee District will now be higher, but I venture to say that if the new district had not been established and the Truckee District had had to provide adequate schooling for its pupils living in the Norden area, the tax rate would be just as high if not higher.

The Board of Supervisors, viewing the situation from a detached and impartial standpoint, voted to establish this district. The State Board of Education also recommended it. It is therefore logical to assume that under the existing conditions, the formation of the Donner Trail Joint District was fully justified.

Yours very truly,
WALTER A. CARLSON,
Superintendent of Schools, Nevada County.

My Place In The Sun

by DOUG BARRETT

With this agitation going on to secure a paid deputy sheriff in this area, it seems as good a time as any to review the merits of our No. 1 law enforcement officer here—N. F. (Tom) Dolley. Truckee is fortunate to have such a splendid officer as Tom. With our constable sick in bed, the Southern Pacific officer out on the job between Roseville and Sparks and the highway patrol busy on the roads, Tom stands like a huge rock between Truckee's homes and lawlessness. People may rib Tom about having so many jobs—but no one offers to relieve him of any of his thankless tasks as fire chief, school trustee and deputy sheriff. No one could do the work he does—nor would they. Tom really deserves a lot of credit—a lot more than he gets.

STREET SEENS: Ida Stewart, the post office glamag, hiking home in the drizzle...without a hat...Lotta Bryant makin' ga Sunday call of Eliza Campbell...Jack Crosland in a solitary promenade down Commercial Row...Defense Bond posters in the Public Utility office and the Sierra Sun window...Jim Garibaldi, Bob Bowers, Orlan Sanders and Tommy Edwards busy Sunday putting on and taking off chains...a dozen Greyhound excursion buses in town...Officer Carl Kitts delivering a lecture on making English pasties to Charlie Brunk, Walter and Harriett Barrett...Ruth-Marie Hunt coming o'er the SP tracks and heading for school... Politics are warming up for the big time in August with rumors by the ream in every mail...From my perch on the rock this is the overall pattern I get...A tough year for the Grand Old Party with their best candidate, an unlikely starter (Atty. Gen. Earl Warren) and a newspaper publisher (Justus Craemer) as the favored nominee...and a couple of real comers (Fletcher Bowron and Roger Jessup) with a lot of support down south...On the Democratic side of the book it appears that Sen. Bob Kenny, who succeeded Gov. Culbert Olson as state senator of Los Angeles county will seek to repeat and unseat His Excellency...with odds nearly even on his success or failure... Here in this district I'll bet on "Scoop" Thurman to succeed himself as assemblyman...and Sheriff Carl Toblissen to carry Truckee against his avowed opponent, Dick Hoskins. A WEEK OF THE WAR

Wearing cold-resistant uniforms, marine corps paratroops board a transport plane for their final jump in a required series of six, which marks completion of a vigorous six-weeks' basic course at a school somewhere in New Jersey. The specially trained sea soldiers volunteered for their hazardous job.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill created three Anglo-American boards to pool American and British munitions, shipping and raw materials. The boards will confer with representatives of the Soviet Union, China and others of the 26 United Nations as necessary "to attain common purposes". The U. S. representatives are Harry Hopkins munitions board; Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, shipping board, and William L. Batt, raw materials board. The President told his press conference.

Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the U. S. Supreme court, who headed the special board of inquiry which placed full responsibility for the Pearl Harbor debacle on Lieut. Gen. Walter C. Short and Adm. Husband E. Kimmel.

ference great progress has been made in unification of American Army and Navy commands. He said such unification has been going on for the past two months and does not result from the Pearl Harbor inquiry board report. Mr. Roosevelt said he is still studying this report, which placed the blame for lack of American alertness at Hawaii on Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short but Presidential Secretary Early indicated further action in regard to the commanders will rest with Navy Secretary Knox and War Secretary Stimson.

PRICE CONTROL

President Roosevelt signed the Price Control Bill which provides for a license system to enforce price regulations, calls for a single administrator and contains provisions to permit farm prices to rise as high as 110 per cent of parity. The President said however, he may ask Congress to correct certain gaps in the bill, particularly the agriculture provisions. He said the prohibition against farm price ceilings at less than 110 per cent of parity is a direct threat to the cost of living, although the licensing, rent control and other provisions are useful weapons against inflation. The Department of Agriculture reported the average of farm product prices on January 15 as 102 per cent of parity.

ARMY

The President signed the Fourth Supplemental National Defense Bill carrying a $12,600,000,000 appropriation for 33,000 Army planes and equipment. War Secretary Stimson announced plans to speed training of 30,000 pilots, observers, navigators and other personnel to match airplane production. War Secretary Stimson announced 20,000 men have been released from duty with combat troops since the Army began replacement of enlisted men engaged in clerical and housekeeping activities by civilian employees, some of them women. He said entrance requirements for officer candidate schools have been changed to allow qualified enlisted men from 18 to 45 to win commissions within six months.

NAVY

The House passed and sent to the Senate a record naval appropriation bill of $18 billion in cash and an additional $4 billion in contract authority.

zations to build the Navy to unprecedented strength. The Senate Appropriations Committee, at the request of President Roosevelt, added another $9 billion to the bill to strengthen the naval air arm. The Marine Corps announced regulations for enlistment of 6,000 men 30 to 50 for guard duty at naval shore stations. The Corps revised requirements to permit only college juniors and seniors and qualified enlisted men to enroll in its reserve officers' candidate class. The Navy waived minimum age requirement of 25 years for leaders, leading men and quartermen in Navy yards and plants under Navy jurisdiction. The Navy is recruiting skilled construction workers for work at naval bases outside the continental United States.

PRODUCTION

The Army Ordnance Department estimated it has been spending $21 million a day for the past five weeks for 1,200 various types of items including ammunition, small arms, artillery, tanks, etc. The Army announced its new 105 mm. howitzer is now in mass production. War Production Chairman Nelson told a meeting in New York City the job facing businessmen is to rush war contracts to completion "without stopping to count the cost."

THE WAR FRONT

The Army reported the Japanese were making heavy reinforcements in the Philippines preparatory to resumption of a large scale offensive against Gen. MacArthur's forces holding strong positions in the Bataan Peninsula. In the Philippine area, U. S. troops destroyed a 5,000-ton enemy vessel and at least five enemy planes, while in the Macassar Straits, Army and Navy forces sank three large enemy transports, set two more afire, torpedoed an aircraft carrier, blew up another large ship and scored hits which probably sank others. The Army announced United States Army forces arrived in Northern Ireland and Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney took over command of all U. S. Army forces in the United Kingdom. President Roosevelt told his press conference this force is one of six, eight or ten American expeditionary forces outside the U. S. in various parts of the world, U-boat activity resulted in the sinking off the Atlantic coast of two American ships and a Norwegian tanker. The U. S. garrison at Midway Island sank an enemy submarine attempting to attack the island.

Brig. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, who commands the force of U. S. troops that has landed in northern Ireland. The war department refused to make public the designation of the units, composition or strength.

Two Can Sing

W-U-J. RELEASE

CHAPTER 3

All right, if you think I'm a sap, falling in love with my own voice, so I could hardly wait to work it out every day, and going nuts about music so I just worked at it on a regular schedule, don't say I didn't warn you. I had been at it three or four months when I found out how bad Doris really was, and maybe that wasn't a kick. She couldn't read a note.

I was in bed when I heard Doris come in from a show. And what does she do but begin singing "Traviata" right in that part I had just been going over.

Well, it was murder. In the first place, she had no rhythm. I guess that was what had bothered me before when I knew something was wrong and didn't know what it was.

I heard her come into the bedroom. I said, "Wasn't that 'Traviata' you were singing?"

"Yes. I was running over a little of it for Jack Leighton. He thinks he can get me on at the Cathedral. You know he owns some stock."

Jack Leighton was the guy she had gone to the theater with, and one of her strings.

"That would be swell."

"Of course, it's only a picture house, but it would be a week's work, and they don't play badly. It would be something coming in. And it wouldn't be bad showmanship for them. After all—I am prominent. Was it all right to wear his orchids?"

"Sure. Why not?"

She went over and sat down.

"Six. Isn't it a crime?"

"Oh, well, he can afford them."

"Even if we can't."

"If orchids are what it takes to make you happy, we can afford all you want."

"How can we afford orchids, when I've pared our budget to the bone?"

"First I heard of it."

"You can lie there, and look at me wearing another man's orchids, almost on by knees to him to give me work that we need—you can take it that casually."

She raved on and I did some fast thinking. It had popped into my mind that there was something funny about those orchids and that it would be a funny thing for Jack to do—send six orchids to Doris.

"In the first place," I said, "you never paid any man his price, because you're not that much on the up-and-up with them. In the second place, if you want to pay it, you just go ahead and pay. I don't pretend I'll like it, but I'm not going down on my knees to you about it. And, in the third place, they're not his orchids."

"They're — what makes you say that?"

"I just happened to remember. When Jack called me up a while ago to tell me, in case I missed my cigarette case, that he had dropped it in his pocket by mistake. And just before he hung up he made a gag about the swell flowers I buy my wife. I had completely forgotten it until now."

"Leonard, how can you be so?"

"So you went out and ordered those orchids yourself, didn't you? And rubbed them in his face all night, just to make him feel like a bum. And now you come home and tell me he sent them to make me feel like a bum. And it turns out we can afford them doesn't it?"

She went out and slammed the door with a terrific bang. It was the first time I had ever taken a decision over her....

Don't get the idea, though, that we fought all the time. One reason we didn't was the kids. Doris may have been a glutton for triumphs, as Cecil said, but whenever Randolph and Evelyn were concerned it was cold turkey.

Like the Sunday at Manhasset. It was the hottest summer I ever spent in New York; so week-ends toward the end of June we began going down to Ethel Gorman's beach cottage, which she turned over to us—Doris Randolph, Evelyn and myself, and Nils and Christine, the couple who worked for us. So this Sunday we went out to look at some yacht races on Hank Ward's boat. We were supposed to go on his cruiser, but before we even got away from the buoy the motor went on the blink and we rowed over to his catboat. We hadn't been out a half-hour before Doris said she wanted to go in. Hank kept sailing over the sound, and I wished Doris would shut up.

Then it came out what the trouble was. Doris was in a sports outfit, but the kids and I had come in shorts and no tops and she was worrying about sunburn.

When we got in we had been out on the Sound at least two hours. Brother, that was a lesson to me what the sun can do, and what a woman can do, once she goes into action. Doris didn't wait till the kids began to whimper. They felt fine, because it takes sunburn about three hours to come out hot, but she started at once. She began working a cool salve into their backs and legs. She sent Nils in the station wagon to round up every electric fan there was on the beach.

He came back with six, and, with our two, that made eight. She had me carry the kids' beds into the living-room, where there were sockets the fans would be plugged into.

All that, mind you, with the kids still scampering around, with the salve shining on their backs. Then we began to hear something. Randolph was the first to squeal. He said his back was beginning to hurt. It showed red, and so did his legs. Doris put him in the breeze of four fans connected tandem. Then Evelyn came in, crying. Doris put her under the next fan. Next thing, my own back began to give notice. I didn't say anything.

There was no supper that night. By seven o'clock it was pitiful what those two little things were going through, and Doris never stopped a minute. She kept rubbing in the salve with the tips of her fingers, first on one then the other. She got a thermometer and took their temperatures. They were both running 101.

By then I was getting panicky. I remembered all I had read about people getting burned so badly that they died. I began following Doris around like a dog, doing everything she told me to, not paying any attention to the fever my own back at all. And then along about ten o'clock, I folded. I slumped down on a chair and sat looking at her hearing what she was saying through some kind of fog.

She snatched off the beach robe I had put on as soon as we got home and I heard a quick intake of her breath. "Leonard! I had forgotten all about your back! It's awful! You're going to bed right now."

"No, I'm all right. You—"

"Right now!"

She took me in, took the robe off me, and the salve went on, big cold blobs of it. But what felt best was the tips of her fingers, just touching me, but smearing it on where the burn was. She put the thermometer in my mouth, looked at it, shook her head.

"What did it say?"

"Enough. Just lie still now."

She came back with one of the fans turned it on me. It felt good. Everything she did felt good. In the living-room I could hear the children whimpering and calling her, and she never stopped. She went from me to them, an dkept Nils and Christine on the run, but she knew we didn't want them, we wanted her. Around dawn the air got a lot cooler, and that helped. I felt a little easier and knew I could sleep. She came in about the nine-hundredth time and sat down. "You feel better? You must be a wreck."

"Who, me? I feel fine."

I wanted to laugh, and I wanted to yell hooray for her, and I wanted to cry. I want you to get the picture, and maybe you'll get a picture of Doris. She had worked like a dog; she had nursed all three of us; she had taken charge of it just as she would have taken charge of an earthquake, if there had been one. But she didn't know she had done anything out of the way.

The next night, while she was packing for the trip back, she said we were going to the Adirondacks. "This is no place for the children, and neither is the city. They'll die if the heat keeps up."

"Yes, they ought to be out of town. You going to take a cottage or what?"

"No cottage. We'll stay at a hotel. We'll let Nils and Christine take a month off, and really have a good time."

"And look out for the kids yourself?"

"Sure; why not?"

I stayed home and learned two more rules. I got a letter from Doris, after she had been up there a week, saying Lorentz was there, too. I gritted my teeth and hung on. She came home and around the end of September Cecil went away. She was booked for a fall tour and wouldn't be back until November. I was surprised how I missed her and how the music wasn't much fun without her. Then, right after that, Doris went away again. She was to sing in Wilkes-Barre. That was a phony, of course, and all it amounted to was that she had friends there who belonged to some kind of tony breakfast club, and they had invited her to sing there.

The day after she left I got a telegram from Cecil, dated Rochester:

MY TENOR HAS GOT THE PIP STOP IF YOU LOVE ME HOP ON A PLANE QUICK AND COME UP HERE STOP BRING OLD ITALIAN ANTHOLOGIES ALSO OLD ENGLISH STUFF ESPECIALLY PAGLIACCI TRAVIATA FACTOTUM AND MASKED BALL ALSO CUTAWAY COAT GRAY PANTS FULL EVENING SOUP AND FISH AND PLENTY OF CLEAN SHIRTS STOP LOVE CECIL.

It caught me at the office about ten in the morning and the messenger waited and as soon as I read it my heart began to pump, not from excitement but from fear. Because up to then it had been just a gag, anyway on my end of it. But this brought me face to face with it: Did I want it enough to get up before people and sing, or not? I stood there looking at it, and then I thought, well, why not? I called the airport, found they had a plane leaving around noon, and made a reservation. Then I sent a wire to Doris telling her I had been called out of town on business, and another one to Cecil telling her I'd be there....

She met me at the airport, kissed me, and bundled me into a car she had waiting. "It was sweet of you to come, My, but I'm glad to see you!"

"Me too. But what happened? I didn't even know you had a tenor."

"Oh, you have to have an assistant artist, to give a little variety. So I let the music bureau sell me a tenor. He was no good. He was awful in Albany and he got the bird last night in Buffalo, so when he turned up this morning with a cold I got terribly alarmed for his precious throat and sent him home. That's all."

"What's the bird?"

"Something you'll never forget, if you ever hear it."

"Suppose they give me the bird?"

I expected her laugh and say something about my wonderful voice, and how they would never give me the bird. She didn't. She looked me all over, and said, "Then I'll have to get somebody else."

"Yeah?"

"They can give you the bird."

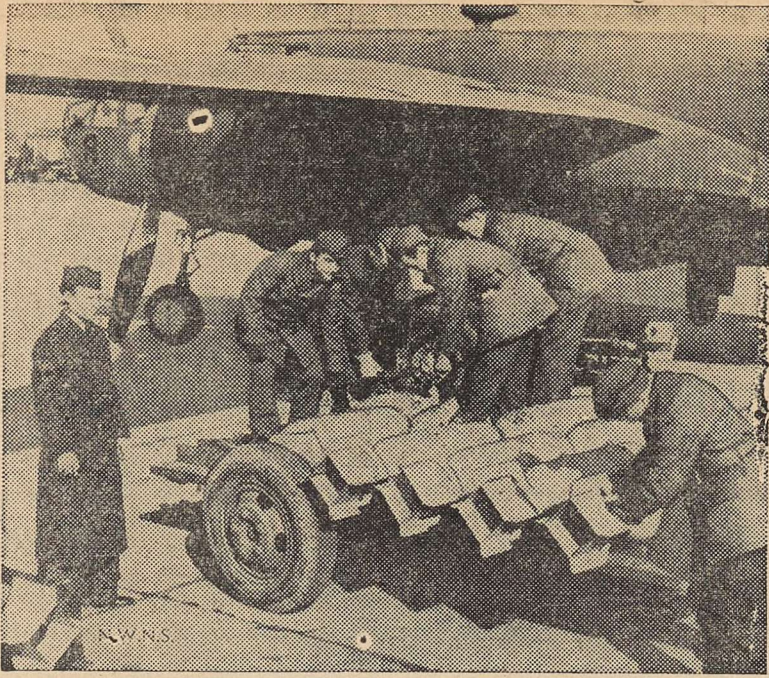

"Hey! Let's talk about something pleasant."

"It's a tough racket."

"Maybe I'd better go home."

SIX INCH SERMON

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

A Busy Sabbath in Capernaum. Lesson for February 8: Mark 1: 21-34.

Golden Text: Revelation 1:10.

Teaching in the synagogue, perhaps the one the centurion had built, particular cases of healing, and the gathering of the city at the door all made that notable day in old Capernaum a busy Sabbath for Jesus.

He "astonished" the people by his teaching and "amazed" them by healing the man who had an unclean spirit. In that time many ailments were attributed to the presence of demons.

Jesus went home with Peter and Andrew, as did James and John. There he healed Peter's wife's mother. "And she ministered unto them." As soon as a man is healed of the worse disease of sin, he should begin ministering unto his Lord.

In one afternoon the wondrous news of the Great Physician went over Capernaum and even into the country about. At sunset the whole city was gathered at the door and Jesus "healed many that were sick of divers diseases." From that day a ministry of compassion has spread through the world. What a pity it has been tragically interrupted by appalling war!

The work of Christ's followers is comprehensive indeed, rightly touching every phase of human life. Let us find the final object of all the manifold work of the church and kindred agencies in the answer Jesus made John's disciples (Matthew 11:5). Healing work of all kinds should be done and through it men should be brought to saving grace. Much disease and many evils can be done away in saving souls, but saving souls is the chief concern.

Grammar School

The "letter writers" of the intermediate grades have recently written letters to Everisto Dominguez, who is in a Reno hospital, Everett Kallenbach, Tony Besio, Keith Weeden and Billy Waters.

After having studied several of the famous men whose birthdays we celebrate this month, the intermediate grades decided to present a play entitled "February's Famous Days". Striking incidents in the lives of Abe Lincoln, George Washington, Longfellow, Edison and Charles Dickens will be retold. The program will take place tomorrow in the school auditorium at 1:15 p.m.

The following teams were recently chosen at the Truckee Grammar school and they will compete in a basketball tournament to be played off starting Monday:

WILDCATS: James Preston, capt., Harvey Hocker, George Lazzari, Kenneth Immer, John Keetch, and Robert Watkins.

TIGERS: Leo Johnson, capt., Melford Barton, Martin Oroz, Roggers Zaragoza, Humbert Clardella, Evaristo Dominguez and Jim Wilson.

DARE DEVILS: Kenneth Snider capt., Eugene Gini, Bill Campbell Bert Weeden, LaVern Hocker, Bob Campbell and Richard Voss.

GORILLAS: Jean Bowers, capt., Alice Waters, Ella Waters, Joan Ghirard, Eleanor Dominguez and Ofelia Dominguez.

RATTLERS: Grace Bigelow, capt., Marilyn Pearson, Barbara Dolley, Letta Lewis and Gertrude Waters.

BEARS: Gertrude Smith, capt., Marlene Mahne, Viola Anderson, Yolanda Giovannoni and Charlotte Gates.
